Is your mansion in need of a makeover? Perhaps your castle is feeling a tad austere. The solution: a light, yet spectacular chandelier made of ostrich feathers by hot South African designer Haldane Martin. Let the lofty heights of your abode guide your choice between a single, double or triple-decker piece from Haldane's beautiful range of Fiela lights. They're named after Dalene Matthee's novel Fiela se Kind. The story is set in Oudtshoorn - the same district the angelic ostrich feathers are sourced from. Being the planet-conscious boy that he is, Haldane uses only energy-saving CFL lamps and recycled stainless steel frames to complete his design - naturally. ♻️
